PLEASE NOTE: Not all items brought to be consigned to an auction will necessarily be accepted. At times some of the items listed above may appear in our sales from estates that our company has agreed to clean out because there are larger items that are saleable. We do not accept the items listed above from our consignors. It is the discretion of the auction staff as to whether items are saleable or not. Individuals who consign items that are not saleable or leftovers from a previous sale will be charged higher commission rates and additional fees for disposal. Repeated instances may result in future consignments not being accepted.
